Little does she know that even though she has no interest in men, one man in particular has an interest in her. Therik is the lord of the warlike race of barbarians. He knows of a prophecy concerning a woman with red hair and golden eyes, a woman he vows to bed. Though she feels pleasure at his touch, Kira is determined to resist the barbarian lord. But even she cannot resist the magical silver and garnet collar he places around her neck. Now as he claims her body and soul she has to wonder if the collar is truly responsible or if she herself is to blame for her willing submission.
